Welcome!

Whether it’s your first visit or a return trip, we welcome you to Faneuil Hall Marketplace.

The Marketplace means so much to so many guests. For the traveler, it’s their first stop when visiting Boston to view this historic landmark. For others, it’s the place they frequented during their college years and have recently rediscovered. And for locals, it’s a regular destination for shopping, dining and fun. Whatever your reason, we are glad that you’re here.

Now more than ever, it is important to support local businesses. Faneuil Hall Marketplace is made up of over one hundred locally-owned shops, restaurants and pushcarts. Please support these local merchants who are here to serve you. In addition, well-known national brands offer opportunities where you can browse merchandise first-hand without having to search the Internet.

It’s all about the experience. And there is no better place than Faneuil Hall Marketplace to shop, eat and soak up the rich history here in the center of Boston.
A Message from Mayor Martin J. Walsh

Greetings,

Faneuil Hall is a place where our city’s past and present come together. It’s considered the “Cradle of America,” a place where revolutionaries gathered to plan the future of our nation. Today, it remains one of Boston’s most iconic landmarks.

Faneuil Hall attracts visitors, vendors, and performers who reflect the diversity of our city and our country. Dancers and artists perform where early Americans fought for their freedom and equal rights. Students from around the world come to learn about the events that shaped our nation. And vendors sell food and gifts from push carts on the same cobblestone streets where early merchants helped to establish Boston’s economy.

Faneuil Hall also serves as the heart of our Marketplace District, which includes our historic outdoor Haymarket as well as our modern Boston Public Market. It’s just steps away from City Hall Plaza, which we’ve turned into a vibrant space for public events, with more renovations to come. It’s also at the intersection of the historic Freedom Trail and the Rose Kennedy Greenway. Visitors can relax on the grass, grab a bite to eat from a wide array of food trucks, or explore some of the most important sites in American history.

For centuries, Faneuil Hall has been a place where big ideas are born. It’s a living monument to a city that’s just as excited about its future as it is proud of its past. We invite everyone to explore this important gateway to Boston.

Sincerely,

Mayor Martin J. Walsh

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Lieutenant Governor Karyn Polito and I would like to welcome you to Faneuil Hall Marketplace in the heart of Boston’s Market District. In order to ensure businesses and visitors continue to do their part to help mitigate the spread of the coronavirus, this year’s Faneuil Hall Neighborhood Guide is being offered in a digital only version. This guide will provide you with all of the information you need to appreciate the incredible history Boston has to offer.

Boston’s Market District is home to a variety of food vendors and restaurants in the historic neighborhood bordered by Haymarket Square and Faneuil Hall Marketplace. This area, known as Boston’s heart and soul, is best described as a microcosm of Boston and the crossroads of the city. Here, the greenway, the Freedom Trail, the train lines and the top tourist destinations all intersect. Faneuil Hall Marketplace offers locals and tourists alike, a glimpse of the history of the City of Boston through its various statues of famous Bostonians and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Museum. The Marketplace also serves as a central location for visitors to gather and enjoy entertainment from street performers and musicians.

Lieutenant Governor Polito and I would like to wish you the very best as you search for great food and great times in this historic and vibrant part of Boston.

Sincerely,

Charles D. Baker
Governor

Faneuil Hall Marketplace – Rich In History

Immerse yourself in history as soon as you step onto the cobblestone walkway that surrounds Faneuil Hall Marketplace. Adjacent to the marketplace is Historic Faneuil Hall, gifted to the city in 1742 by wealthy merchant Peter Faneuil to be used as a food market for the city’s growing population. The Great Hall was added on almost as an afterthought, but it has become the most historically significant spot at Faneuil Hall. The Great Hall has hosted impassioned orators including the firebrand Samuel Adams who rallied the citizens of Boston to fight for independence from Great Britain, President George Washington and women’s suffragette activist Susan B. Anthony. The Great Hall is also where John F. Kennedy gave his last televised campaign speech during his presidential campaign in 1960. The National Park Service oversees historic Faneuil Hall and offers free daily ranger-guided talks every half hour from 9:30am – 4:30pm in the Great Hall unless it is reserved for a city-sponsored event.

For military history buffs, don’t miss the museum on the 4th floor of historic Faneuil Hall. It’s the home of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, the oldest chartered military organization in the western hemisphere granted in 1638 by the Great and General Court of Massachusetts Bay and signed by Governor John Winthrop. Its mission was to prepare its members to serve as officers in the enrolled militia companies. In the museum you will see artifacts such as firearms, swords, paintings, and medals that reflect the role that Boston played in a variety of military affairs since the 1700s. Admission to the museum is free and is open to the public Monday through Friday, 9am-3:30pm.

More colonial Boston history is just steps outside the Dock Square entrance of historic Faneuil Hall where Samuel Adams Park is located and features a commanding statue of Adams, one of the Sons of Liberty who was instrumental in the Revolutionary War. A new tap room bearing his name is now open adjacent to the park serving craft beer made on the premises by the Boston-based company Samuel Adams that was established in 1987. The Samuel Adams Tap Room opened in January 2020 and features Samuel Adams craft beers and special tasting menus throughout the week. When you are visiting Faneuil Hall Marketplace, stop by and toast the America’s Revolutionary War Hero with his namesake beer.

Continue your history journey at Quincy Market where historic walking tours are held every week with guide Linda Perlman. Discover the behind-the-scenes stories about how Quincy Market was built. How Push Carts Began

Can you spot the image of the bull on the weathervane atop the dome on Quincy Market? That was the inspiration for the name “Bull Market” that describes the 35 push carts full of unique gift items and artisan wares at Faneuil Hall Marketplace.

When the Marketplace was renovated and reopened to the public in 1976, there were empty spaces on either side of Quincy Market. To fill those spaces, the developer sought local craftspeople to sell their goods from wooden carts that resembled those used since the mid 1800’s by the Haymarket food peddlers next door. Faneuil Hall Marketplace is where the push cart phenomenon was born and subsequently replicated across the country, now a $12 billion industry.

The push carts are all locally owned and operated and offer everything to dress you from head to toe. You’ll find socks, undergarments, t-shirts, sweatshirts, hats and jewelry to dazzle up your outfit. The push carts have a wide selection of Boston-themed clothing for all ages from infants to adults. Gifts from around the world can also be found at the Bull Market, including Russian dolls, Turkish good luck charms and keepsakes from Ireland and Asia.

There is even a new push cart for your pets, Wags and Whiskers, where you’ll find cat and dog accessories such as treats, clothing, leashes and toys. Wags and Whiskers Owner Lisa Mulcahy says Faneuil Hall Marketplace is the perfect spot for her push cart. “Wags and Whiskers is one of the best decisions I ever made. I get to sell items that I love in an open market and even dogs can come by to visit and get a treat." Lisa is also a big proponent of pet adoptions and encourages prospective pet owners to “please adopt, don’t shop.” Ten percent of every t-shirt and plush stuffed animal sold is donated to a shelter for homeless pets. Lisa is also the owner of the push cart Musically Yours.

Another newcomer to the Bull Market is the push cart Liquor Wicks™ that makes natural soy candles in your favorite repurposed spirits bottles. Stop by Liquor Wicks™ and ask owner Freddy Freeman about their mouth-watering fragrance options. “Our repurposed beer and wine bottle candles are two of our customer favorites! They come in a wide assortment of legendary fragrance options sure to please any palate,” said Freddy.

Local artisans will be on display at another new push cart, It’s a Shore Thing, featuring nautical and Boston-theme keepsakes. Owner Julia Morash had envisioned opening up a push cart at Faneuil Hall Marketplace more than 20 years ago when she was a student at Emmanuel College and now her dream has come true. You will find one-of-a-kind magnets, wall decorations and even hand-painted lobster claws from Maine! Stop by and visit It’s a Shore Thing where 100 percent of the items are made in New England.

Other push carts feature sports paraphernalia, toys, magic tricks, games and all types of accessories for your mobile phone and Boston-themed souvenirs.

Stroll through the Bull Market and visit the push carts that are located both inside and outside of Quincy Market. It’s a shopping experience that you won’t forget. For a complete list of the Bull Market/push carts, see pages 33 and 35.

Ghosts & Gravestones

GhostsandGravestones.com
Several of the original vendors are still serving customers 44 years later as hungry visitors make their way through the center of Quincy Market deciding what food strikes their fancy. Grab a slice at Regina Pizzeria, who invented the concept of selling the famous pie by the slice when they opened to spectacular crowds in 1976. Stop at ARIS B-B-Q for authentic American standbys including ribs, chicken and burgers. The Walrus & Carpenter Oyster Bar has also been serving fresh seafood since 1976 and is one of only two food vendors with seating where diners can enjoy a cup of chowder, shucked oysters, lobster rolls and other New England seafood favorites. Boston and Maine Fish Company is the other stop for fine seafood and adult beverages. Any dining experience at the Food Colonnade must include dessert, so visit Kilvert & Forbes Bakeshop and Maggie’s Sweets for a fresh-baked chocolate chip cookie. It’s one of the first bakeries at Quincy Market, which was opened by former U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry when he was an attorney in private practice in Boston.

The Quincy Market Food Colonnade has welcomed additional new vendors over the years and now has options for every diner, including gluten-free, vegan and cooked-to-order specialties. Whether you are in the mood for New England seafood, Italian, Indian, Japanese, Mexican or American fare, you will find it all in the nation’s first food hall, a “must do” for any visit to Boston.
Finest Foods & Cocktails

In addition to the international cuisine offered in the Food Colonnade in Quincy Market, Faneuil Hall Marketplace is also home to nine full-service restaurants. Dine beneath beautiful glass canopies, enjoy dinner under the stars or stop by early on Sundays for Sunday Brunch at participating locations.

Here’s a look at the unique attributes of each restaurant:

NED DEVINE’S IRISH PUB
Quincy Market
Ned Devine’s is a Faneuil Hall favorite for its casual pub dining, craft beer selection, lively happy hours and the best in live music on Friday and Saturday nights. A single destination for food, fun and entertainment, Ned Devine’s offers a bar amidst the action of the Quincy Market food plaza, spacious upper level dining, as well as a chic lounge and dance floor for weekend night life. Ned’s clam chowder is a Boston Harborfest three-time winner for “Best Clam Chowder” and now a proud Hall of Fame Member. neddevinesboston.com

THE SALTY DOG OYSTER BAR & GRILLE
Quincy Market
Established in 1972, The Salty Dog is Faneuil Hall’s landmark for fresh regional seafood served in a casual and historic atmosphere. Fresh oysters, fried seafood baskets, luncheon specials, fresh shore dinners, Maine lobster dishes, featured specialty dishes and deluxe sandwich plates round out the menu. Whether visiting the indoor patio and street side Oyster Bar, The Salty Dog provides the ultimate Boston seafood experience.
